

Sea Air Bliss

Just when you think the panoramic views can't get any better, it'll hit you – the windows open – letting all that fresh sea air in.

a chair or rent a cabana. During the summer, kids ditch their parents and head to the Pool's Back Yard to play games like football, ping pong and giant-sized checkers. Camp Hyatt offers summer fun for kids ages 3 through 12.

For folks traveling without kids, or parents who just need some time away, Kin Oasis delivers. This adults-only pool is located on the 3rd floor overlooking San Diego Bay.

Whether you're looking for an excuse to dress up or a quick, casual bite to eat, there's something for just about every craving poolside Kin Spa is just steps away. There's a wide range of choices to spoil yourself; massages, manicures, pedicures, facials and body wraps.

Indulge

Whether you're looking for an excuse to dress up or a quick, casual bite to eat, there's something for just about every craving. The seasonal Pool Bar & Grill means not having to put on shoes. Redfield's Deli is perfect if you're on-the-go. Sally's Seafood on the Water gives you, as you might have guessed, great water views, seafood, steaks and a number of gluten free choices. Fuel up for a busy day of lounging by the pool with breakfast at Lael's Restaurant. This diet-busting buffet is worth splurging on at least once during your stay. It's got everything you'd expect from a hotel buffet – made to order omelets, bagels, fruit and a never ending supply of bacon. But it also has sweet surprises. The day I indulged, I enjoyed honeydew juice instead of the basic orange. And though the plate after plate of Danishes, muffins, croissants and other fresh baked pastries were tempting, I held out for the waffle bar, which includes one of the biggest jars of chocolate chips I've ever seen.

Flaming Fun

S'mores aren't just for camping anymore. Be sure to pick up a s'mores kit from the Pool Kiosk or Redfield's Deli in the lobby. Fire pits light up the night on the 4th floor pool deck.

Gym

I like to think vacation calories don't count, but if you're determined to maintain those workouts, the Manchester Grand Hyatt makes it easy and actually pretty fun. The 24 hour Hyatt Stay Fit Gym has views worth bragging about and keeping fit is taken to new heights on the Roof-Top Sport Courts. There's tennis, volleyball, shuffleboard, basketball and horse shoes to inspire you to keep moving. Runners who want to get out and about will love the detailed neighborhood running maps. If they're not careful, it might be the only time they leave the hotel.

Time flies when you're feeling spoiled.
